22 games is a great many games for the low price of $2.70 in the dollar of Australia. That is just 12c per game!
Wow! Assuming a 6 month development cycle average with an average daily development schedule of 6 hours per day including weekends, this is just 0.000005c per hour of game development time! This is an outrageously low value to put on the last 15 years of the developer's life but I guess the games are made in Flash, the unholy cousin of all game development platforms, possibly justifying this low low price.

The games themselves are of the highest quality imaginable. Being primarily written in ActionScript 2 as seen in the extremely well-presented behind-the-scenes documents means that these were the highest calibre of development for their time - no dirty, under-performing MY EYES C, C++ or C# code here! My favourite of the collection is definitely The Infection, because it most closely resembles the happiness I feel when I boot it up on my GTX 1080Ti, which I purchased specifically for the extremely high quality graphics in this collection. The games containing eggs are especially amazing to me, because of the high level of difficulty in creating SPAWN more over the top DS the artwork, which the creator has absolutely nailed with the precision of a surgeon's knife - the perfect curvature, the glistening surfaces, the eyes that upon meeting with your own tell the story of what it really means to be the potential host of chicken life.

The inclusion of the behind-the-scenes material is an amazing bonus - it is clear that hours upon hours went into crafting these divine grimoires of game creation knowledge and deep developer retrospect. I even managed to pick up some new coding ideas to improve my own code while reading them, which is quite rare after almost a decade of the professional coding!

Extremely fun and nostalgia-triggering. 4/10.. I LIVE FOR THIS GAME BOI. These games kept me up all night, so much fun!!
